GEO-CODES

Introduction

Geo-code is broadly defined as an assignment of a code to a geographic location. It provides ground work for statistical activities, data comparability and data mapping across different dataset obtained through statistical censuses and surveys, administrative records and other innovative data sources (e.g. big data).

Although the geo-codes are being used by the National Statistics Bureau and other data producers for the conduct of surveys and censuses, there has been no uniformity in its usage. The main objective of publishing this geo-code is to guide and facilitate data producers and providers to avoid inconsistencies and confusion in the comparability of the data produced.

For the rural areas the different levels of codes are provided for Dzongkhags, Gewogs and chiwogs. All gewogs are arranged in alphabetical order within the Dzongkhag and all chiwogs are arranged in alphabetical order within the gewog. While for urban areas it is provided for Dzongkhags, Towns, Local Area (LAs) and Enumeration Areas (EAs). All Dzongkhag Towns and four Thromdes have codes 51-59 and all other satellite towns have codes 61-69. All Dzongkhags will have Dzongkhag Town except for Thimphu and Samdrup Jongkhar. They only have thromde and no Dzongkhag Town. Thromde will be there for only Four Dzongkhag of Thimphu, Chhukha, Sarpang and Samdrup Jongkhar. Each Dzongkhag will begin with the Dzongkhag towns or Thromde in alphabetical order followed by the satellite town in alphabetical order if any

The geo-codes will be revised and published as and when the ground realities change due to delimitation exercise carried out by the Election Commission of Bhutan (ECB) or other developments in future.

The names and spellings of Dzongkhags, Gewogs and Chiwogs are in line with the standard list provided by the ECB as per the delimitation and demarcation of the administrative boundaries. The Dzongkhags are arranged in an alphabetical order for assigning unique codes and likewise for gewogs, chiwogs and towns within each sub levels. The LAs in a town and EAs in a LA are arranged in a sequential manner and assigned unique codes accordingly.

National Statistics Bureau would appreciate if our users could provide comments or feedbacks for further improvement.
